Lawrence Hall Rededication 2003

Named in honor of SCSU's legendary educator and eighth president, Isabel Lawrence, St. Cloud State University's oldest building has been renovated to once again stand as a proud and stately reminder of our university's heritage of excellence and opportunity.

Today's rededication celebration is a tribute to President Lawrence and the tremendous influence she had on the professional and personal lives of thousands of graduates. Upon her retirement in 1921, a member of the class of 1893 commented that "the state legislature chose an opportune time to change the name of the institution from the St. Cloud Normal to the St. Cloud Teachers College for how could it be the Normal School without Miss Lawrence?"

In her 42 years as a beloved, innovative and inspirational leader of teacher training in Minnesota and throughout the nation, Isabel Lawrence's personality, ideas and leadership made permanent impressions on the character of the institution and on its students.
